

Ask yourself...

- Does my partner scare or intimidate me with their words or actions?
- Does my partner control where I go and who I can speak with?
- Has my partner hurt me or touched me in a way I didn't want?
- Are you afraid your partner might hurt your children?

If you answered "Yes" to any of these questions you may be in an unsafe relationship.

It is NOT your fault and you are NOT alone.

What is domestic violence?

Domestic violence is a pattern of abusive or violent behavior within an intimate relationship, such as a current or former partner, spouse, boyfriend or girlfriend.

Domestic violence affects everyone. It affects all ages, races, genders, and all socio-economic classes.

The stress of domestic violence and family violence can also affect your health and your mental health.

What hurts you, hurts your children too.

Be calm, reassure them the violence is not their fault.

Listen and be supportive.

Domestic Violence is against the law.

Safety Plan

If your safety is being threatened

Prepare now in case you need to leave in a hurry.

Having a safety plan will help you and your family stay safe.

Call 9-1-1 if you are in immediate danger.

TEACH your children how to dial 9-1-1 in case of an emergency.

TALK to someone you trust about what is happening in your relationship. Ask for help in case you need to leave.

CALL one of the numbers in this booklet from a safe place. They can help you plan ways to stay safe.

PACK a bag that won't be missed including money, clothes, important documents, and medications. Hide the packed bag, or keep it with someone you trust.

Note: Sometimes leaving can be a dangerous time.

Are you hurting someone you love?

It is OK to ask for help if you are hurting someone you love.
